

SHSM- Contextualized Learning Activity

Workplace/Technical Communication Unit

In this unit, you will reinforce and further develop literacy skills directly related to the workplace. These skills will help prepare you to communicate effectively in a variety of forms within given contexts.

You will be required to design, build, and promote a condominium development.

In the planning stage, you will need to decide on a name for your company, appearance of the condominium, and interpret a site plan to determine location.

In the building stage, you will create a three-dimensional model of your condominium which will later be used its promotion/ presentation.

In the writing stage, you will be required to produce several forms of writing in tasks related to a variety of communication skills associated with the planning, building, and promoting of your condominium.

In the promoting stage, you will be required to prepare a presentation to city planners for their approval to begin construction of the condominium.

Have fun, be creative...but be thorough.....your company's future depends on it!!
